GAME OF PICKING A SENATOR

secret Tips on Hughes This Year Were -Frank Black Corrais 40 Votes, but Has No Helper in Washington.

Several of the Republican pilgrims to Washington returned yesterday with varied views as to Mr. Platt's successor in the United States Senate. Senator Platt himself said that he believed Elihu Root would be the man. Representative Parsons, president of the New York Republican county committee, believed that too. William Berri, another of the New Yorkers who discussed the matter with the President, said that he guessed the joint caucus of the Republican Senstors and Assemblymen would determine State Chairman Woodruff arrived from Washington in the morning and sped up State. He is to return to-morrow night. William Barnes, Jr., got here from Albany last night. He had had a talk with Chairman Woodruff at Albany yesterday, and it was learned that President Roose-

"All of these fellows who are telling what they are going to do at Albany to defy the President," said one of ex-Gov. Black's friends, "will fade away. Don't put any stock in their talk that they are to hold to their constitutional prerogative and select the Senator themselves."

But the nomination of Sherman for Vice-President at Chicago is described as a defeat for the President, who wanted Beveridge, Dolliyer or Cummins, and the nomination of Fairbanks in 1904 as another defeat. It has now become current that the President was defeated in the matter of Gov. Hughes's renomination and was defeated by ex-Gov. Frank S. Black. Mr. Black was a delegate to the Saraloga convention from Rensselaer. When he arrived on the field he was taken to task by Chairman Woodruff, Mr. Barnes, Mr. Parsons, William L. Ward and others for having announced several days be-fore through Cornelius V. Collins, whom Gov. Hughes reappointed as Superintendent of Prisons, that H ughes would be "No, you don't fool me this time,"

Black smilingly said to this group of Republicans. "I am for Hughes, and you fellows will be for Hughes, and you fellows will be for Hughes, and you fellows will be for Hughes in the end because the bell will ring from Oyster Bay. It hasn't rung yet, but I propose to have it ring. You are not for Hughes and the man in Oyster Bay is not for Hughes, but you will be within the next few hours."

If the people of the State desire to be thus represented they have but to declare their as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as well can be received as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as well can be received as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as well can be received as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as well can be received as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as well can be received as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as well can be received as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein, as the promise that the Chancellor's own share therein. the United States Hotel, Saratoga Springs. He then told these correspondents that he knew the facts and that neither President Roosevelt nor any of his friends is the Republican State organization desired the renomination of Hughes. The following morning Mr. Black's statement of the situation was printed in all of the newspapers of the State, and within a very few hours the telephones between Oyster Bay and Saratoga were thrown vide open and Mr. Woodruff, Mr. Parsons. Mr. Ward and all the other anti-Hughes men in the State organization teard the bell ring.

The President's letters to Mr. Woodruff and to others before the Saratoga convention, it was stated last night by those who had read them, are open to two interpretations, the first being a dear instruction to defeat Hughes, and the second being that perhaps it would be a good thing to renominate Hughes for the moral effect in other States. As a matter of fact most of these etters, originally typewritten, were choked with interpolations in the President's own handwriting. Those interpolations were construed according to the mind of the construer. But all the friends of ex-Gov. Black have had broad grins since election day at his "forcing he President to ring the bell for Hughes.

There were other Republicans in this eighborhood last night who said that they believed that Mr. Black's famous barrel head speech at Concord, N. H., last pring and his speech at Carnegie Hall in the closing days of the recent campaign would be used by the President and his riends to compass the defeat of Black for United States Sena.or.

WHAT'S MR. KISSEL TO DO? Brooklyn Senator-elect Thinks He Ought to Help Choose Platt's Successor. John Kissel, a veteran Republican politician in Brooklyn, pulled off a notable victory on election day by ousting Conrad Hasenflug from the Senatorship in the Ninth district by a plurality of more than 1,000, although the district has a big normal Democratic plurality. The nomination of Kissel in the first place caused much surprise in political circles, as he had long been at odds with Timothy L. Woodruff, the county leader, and a strong idvocate of a reorganization of the party. It is understood that when slated for the

It is understood that when slated for the Senatorship Mr. Kissel promised to abandon his factional warfare and in the event of his election to do all in his power to forward the aspirations of Woodruff to become the successor of Senator Platt.

Apparently Senator-elect Kissel has become disturbed over the reports from Washington that President Roosevelt has taken charge of the job of filling the impending vacancy in the Senate and relieving him from his ante-election pledge to Mr. Woodruff.

This is a copy of the letter outlining his subarrassment sent yesterday by Mr. Klasel to the Brooklyn papers:

William Berri, who was one of those at the lunch at the White House on Wednesday, said yesterday:

UNION LEAGUE FOR ROOT. Cheste Proposes the Resolution-Campaign Committee of Thirty. The Union League Club pledged itself unanimously last night to support Elihu Root for United States Senator to succeed T. C. Platt, and a campaign committee of thirty will be appointed to further Mr. oure, if possible, further pledges of State Root's selection.

The resolutions for Root were presented by Joseph H. Choate and seconded by Gen. Horace Porter, Col. John J. McCook and others.

In discussing Mr. Root's qualifications for the Senatorship Mr. Choate told of Mr. Assemblymen. It was stated yesterday Root's preeminence as a lawyer in this Assembly in Mr. Woodruff has many pledges to city and of his services to the nation when his candidacy, and it also leaked out that he finally gave up his law practice to enter his candidacy, and it also leaked out that Frank S. Black has forty Senators and Assemblymen pledged to his candidacy. This pledging has been done very quietly. Republicans of experience hardly knew yesterday what to say of the situation. One group declared that if the President put his foot down hard he would have his representatives.

sented in the Senate by Mr. Root as it is to Mr. Root to be selected as the State's representative.

Col. John J. McCook said that at every stage of Mr Root's career the only objection any one has ever raised to his further elevation has been the consideration that no one could fill the place he left. The only possible objection to electing Mr. Root Senator, then, Col. McCook concluded, would be the difficulty in getting another Secretary of State. There was only one other New Yorker eminently worthy of consideration as a possibility for the Senatorship, the speaker added, and he by moving the resolution had eliminated himself.

This reference to Mr. Choate drew forth great applause.

"Is Mr. Root a candidate for the Senatorship?" Mr. Choate was asked after the hearing.

"Mr. Root will accept the election if it comes spontaneously," Mr. Ghoate responded.

"But suppose it doesn't come spontaneously, it was suggested; "what if he has to make a fight for votes?"

"Mr. Root," responded Mr. Choate with emphasis, will not have to make any fight for votes."

The resolutions say that New York ought to be represented by "a man able and willing to assert its just authority, to defend its interests and to maintain its dignity," and add:

Mr. Root's eminent and unquestioned fitness for the position will be universally.

Ex-Gov. Black carried out a programme by inviting the newspaper correspondents to visit him at his cottage in the United States Hotel, Saratoga Springs.

If the people of the State desire to be thus represented they have but to declare their distributions of the State of the St who are of our way of thinking openly to declare their preference for Mr. Root, so that the Legislature, when it meets, shall be unmistakably advised of the wishes of their constituents.

Special Cable Duspatch to THE SUR. BEREIN, Nov. 12.—The Reichstag's dies rae, as a newspaper describes this week's parliamentary explosion, has not appeased the public indignation aroused by the Kaiser's interview. The criticisms of the deputies are regarded as satisfactory enough so far as they went, but there is keen disappointment that the debate ended in mere words and did not produce a single assurance that the happenings which produced the outburst will not Severe criticisms are now bestowed upon the Deputies themselves for not insisting upon some guarantee that the Kaiser's personal régime should cease. The discontent is naturally most pronounced in the Radical press, but even the respectable Conservative Reichsbote appeals to the Emperor to issue a manifesto to the nation undertaking to abandon absolutist methods, while the Conservative Hamburger Nachrichten, which tries to keep alive Bismarck's voice, arges the people to show their disapproval of the Kaiser by receiving him with cool reserve when he appears in public.

The position of Chancellor von Bülow has again become a prominent question. There is general belief that differences of opinion have arisen between the Emperor and Chancellor. Certain indications have created the view that Prince von Bulow did not confer with the Kaiser before addressing the Reichstag on the subject of the interview, and that consequently the sovereign was not aware of what the Chancellor meant to say. He is no wise satisfied with Prince von Bülow's lukewarm defence, it is said, and is angry that the Chancellor did not try to check the personal attacks upon

According to one newspaper the Chancellor telegraphed to the Emperor yester-day asking his views on the Reichstag debate and has received no reply. From this circumstance it is inferred that the Chancellor has fallen into disfavor. Another paper asserts positively what is generally assumed, viz., that Prince von Bülow will certainly resign before the end of the year.

Much importance is attached to neeting of the Prussian Cabinet held in the committee room of the Reichstag yesterday while the debate was in progress. It is known that Chancellor von Bulow and the Ministers then discussed the situation in relation to the Reichstag proceedings. The Frankfürter Zeitung prints a telegram from its Berlin correspondent, who is known to be persona grata to the Chancellor, in reference to this Cabinet meeting, from which the public draws important inferences.

The correspondent intimates that Prince won Bülow means to take the earliest opportunity of seeing the Kaiser, who is fitness for the position will be universally still at Donaueschingen, and discussing conceded. burch and State Separation Meeting Broken Up by Women Who Broke Into Mr. Birrell's Speech With Cries for Votes-Paster Appeals in Vain.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, Nov. 12.—The City Temple, the Rev R. J. Campbell's church, is the latest cockpit of the suffragettes. Regardless of the sacred purpose for which the building was designed, they raised their familier clamor for votes there to-day, thereby causing pandemonium of a quality hardly pelow the results of their noisiest efforts.

The Temple had been lent for a meeting of the Liberation Society, a Nonconformist religio-political association aiming to separate the Church of England from State patronage and control. The fact that Mr. Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, was announced to speak induced the suffragettes to attend in conformance with their recent pledge never to allow a Liberal Minister to speak in public without interruption.

Mr. Birrell had uttered exactly six words when the first vote claimer piped up. The promptness with which she was ejected showed that obtrusions were expected. Indeed, stewards were scattered throughout the church prepared to deal with trouble, while a number of policemen were on hand at the entrances

After the first outbreak Mr. Campbell appealed for peace. He reminded his hearers that they were in a church, and he declared that many present, including sured him that he was prepared to support the enfranchisement of women Silence then fell on the audience and Mr. Birrell again began his speech.

"Votes for women!" was immediately shrilled from the front of the gallery.

The stewards pounced upon the utterer of the words, who proved a tough Amazon She put up such a struggle that it seemed the half a score of persons engaged in it would inevitably fall over the balustrade. The audience stood up and watched the fight in alarm. Some fied to the street. Other sympathizing women oried: "Shame!" and "Cowards!"

Finally the stewards got a fair grip on the disturber's garments and carried her out. Her clothes were awry, her hair dishevelled and she shrieked at the top of her voice until she was landed in the

Scarcely had Mr. Birrell resumed his address when another woman let out a vote scream, and her ejection followed. This was kept up until thirteen women and three men were put into the street, some easily and some after a roaring

By this time many of the audience had left the church, shocked by the desecration of the Temple, while others who withdrew were intolerant of foolishness in the abstract or feared a riot. Mr. Birrell had sandwiched a few sentences between each ejection, but he ultimately wound up abruptly, and after Mr. Campbell had gravely deprecated the conduct of the interrupters the people filed out of the building.

The suffragettes had achieved their object. The meeting had been spoiled.
